

Dear Sir,

My mother works in DRM office (South Central Railways Guntakal Division Andhra Pradesh) has been recently medically unfit and on compassionate grounds I am eligible to apply for the job in Indian Railways. Please note that I am the only biological child to my mother. But my step father (whom my mother married after my biological father expired) has a son from his first wife is trying to grab that job by other ways. To stop this initially, I notified to the Indian Railways authorities through my advocate, but to my surprise I have not heard any response from them. Now I want to send a court order to DRM office Guntakal Division stating that "if a job on compassionate grounds to be given then I am the only person who will be eligible for that job". As I am pregnant women expecting my delivery soon in August and I stay in Hyderabad which is far away from Guntakal Jurisdiction, it is difficult for me to travel and attend court proceeding for the next 3 to 4 months. Meanwhile my step father will go ahead and I will be in difficult situation.

I request you to please let me know how to proceed in this situation. The following are some options that come to my mind.

- 1) Can I approach local court in Hyderabad (Telangana state) where I currently stay to issue court order to DRM office Guntakal or South Central Railways (I don't know)?
- 2) Is there any other legal procedure to notify Indian Railways so that they take this situation seriously (other than just notifying them via advocate as I did previously)
- 3) Is there any approach to hold the current situation temporarily (at least 6 months), as after 6 months I can directly visit Guntakal Jurisdiction for issuing court order.
